

Essential Energy Services Provides a Litigation Update

CALGARY, Alberta, Dec. 05, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Essential Energy Services Ltd. (TSX:ESN) ("Essential" or the "Company") updates disclosure provided in its Management's Discussion & Analysis ("MD&A") filed on November 8, 2017.

On November 3, 2017, the Federal Court of Canada (the "Court") rendered a decision in Essential's favor with regard to a patent infringement proceeding commenced by Packers Plus Energy Services Inc. ("Packers Plus"), ruling that the Packers Plus patent was not valid and that Essential did not infringe the patent. The MD&A stated that Packers Plus has up to 30 days from the date of the Court's decision to appeal the Court's rulings on validity and infringement. In order to have any claim of damages against Essential, Packers Plus would have to appeal each of the validity and infringement decisions and win both appeals.

On November 29, 2017, Packers Plus wrote to the Court and asked whether the Court agreed with Packers Plus' position that the 30-day timeline to file an appeal does not start until the date the Judge finalizes and releases the judgment (the "Request"). In other words, Packers Plus is taking the position that the date of the Court's decision for the purpose of the deadline to appeal should be treated as the date that the Court's decision is publicly released. The Court has not yet responded to the Request and the Judge has not released the final judgment. As such, the timeframe available for Packers Plus to appeal the Court's decision, if they choose to do so, has not been conclusively determined. Essential will communicate when it has further clarity in respect of such appeal timeframe.
